

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES.—Rumor is busy in relation to the developments which are said to have been made before the Committee of the House of Representatives, now investigating the proceedings of this institution, and it is due to the friends of the Bank to say, that the only individual from this city who has been examined by the Committee, was called before them at his own solicitation. It is not probable therefore, that the ridiculous stories now in circulation can be founded on any authentic information. Stock-jobbers may have an interest in depressing the price of stock, and holders should exercise a sound discretion in the premises.
