

Lodgings.—We would suggest to the keepers of boarding houses, the propriety of their leaving their names, with the places of their residences, together with a statement of the number of persons they can accommodate, at some of the respectable Hotels, in order that the members of the Convention who are now assembling in our city, may be provided with comfortable accommodations. It will operate both to their own advantage, and to the convenience of the members.