

GEORGIA—THE CHEROKEE QUESTION—We refer the particular attention of the candid and impartial reader to the very able report made to the legislature of Georgia in relation to the Cherokee question, which we publish on our first page this morning, with the introductory letter of a highly respectable citizen of that state, and the valuable and pertinent notes of Mr. Stocks.—There is no subject on which there has been more studied or more unfair misrepresentations of the true facts of the case than this.—Every engine of sectarian and political zeal has been put in motion, to discolor the whole question, and to excite the public mind, not only against the authorities of Georgia, but the administration of the General Government. The report and the notes place the matter in its true light. Every man who values the truth, and who is desirous to correct honest error as well as designed perversion, will read them. We cannot express, too strongly, our reprobation of the course of the New-York Observer, which, after having filled its columns with the most exaggerated and unfounded statements, for sectarian and political effect, refused to insert an official document on the subject, although requested to do so by a respectable citizen of Georgia. And yet that print professes to be exclusively religious, and none makes broader its philacteries. Shame on it!
