

THE ELECTION.—We had hoped this week to give a complete statement of the result of the late election, but it appears full information had not yet reached Milledgeville, (whence we chiefly look for it;) at the time of our last advices.—We give below the Members elected to the Legislature in fifty-two counties, leaving a number yet to be heard from, and postpone until our next, a statement of the votes given for Governor, Member of Congress, and the Convention.—Though there was no organized opposition to Mr. Forsyth, yet in some of the counties there was a vigorous adverse vote fixed on different names, as suited the taste of the place, which we shall report scattering. Mr. Gilmer is most probably chosen by a large majority; for though we have seen but a partial return of the details, yet they sufficiently betoken it.—Our intelligence last week led us to think that the Convention Ticket had succeeded; but information up to this time makes it doubtful. There seems to have been considerable indifference to the matter, as the number of votes given on the subject, so far as we have heard, amount to very little over two thirds of those given for member of Congress.—Entire success has been obtained in several counties for members of the Legislature which heretofore have been of an opposite complexion, giving altogether a majority of about two to one in that body in favour of the principles of the present executive.

The first name to each county is the Senator.
