

But let us look at the other members of the Board, and ask whether they have not character and integrity sufficient to prevent their being made tools of by three bigots of their own body? Judge Chayton, George R. Gilmer, Edward Payne, Jas. M. Wayne and Oliver H. Prince are neither of them members of any religious society. Now, these men are well known to the citizens of Georgia—and who, we ask, but one keen sighted by crossing the ocean, or one illuminated by the effulgence of Northern lights, could have ever discovered in them, not a want of integrity, but even of such common prudence, as to enter into a league with 2500 despised Presbyterians, in order to give these the monopoly of our University?—
