
 A CARD.

 RUSTICUS informs Mr. CLAYTON, that (if he wishes) he may believe the TWO Pieces lately published in the Georgia Express, under the signature of RUSTICUS, to have been levelled at him, and that if the cap fits him he may wear it — The author is not afraid nor ashamed of his name, and if Mr. Clayton wishes to challenge the author, he will undoubtedly make himself known.