
Indian Preference.—After the Cherokee, Tassels, was condemned to be hung, his counsel asked him how he liked his sentence.—He answered that he would rather go to his own country and be shot.—He was told that could not be done.—“Well, then,” said he, “rather than be hung I will go to Arkansas.”
—[Georgia Courier.]
