

The Pennsylvanian seems perfectly satisfied with Judge Clayton's defence of Mr. Whitney. Our readers are aware that that defence amounts to an admission that Whitney was in Canada during the war, and that while there he took the oath of allegiance to the British authorities. Surely if the Pennsylvanian is satisfied with such an explanation, we have no cause to complain.